

Styles & Conventions

The repository enforces some rules for the team as below. You can also find this here:

Style

Code style is enforced by `eslint` and `prettier`. Each time before you commit your code, please run:

```
npm run lint

File Name Convention

- Since `Next.js` imposes file-based routing, file names/paths should follow Next.js rules.
- React components should always have the `.tsx` extension to avoid compilation errors.

Branch Name Conventions

The new name of the branch should follow the style `<type>/<short-name>`, where types can be:

- `feat` : for new features or user stories
- `fix` : for bug fixes
- `perf` : for performance improvements

Please do not name your branch with your name (e.g., `feat/alex`).
